Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from The Dedication of the Germanic Museum of Harvard University To the President of the University: - Sir, - The collections of the Germanic Museum, as far as they were installed during the academic year 1902-03, may be summed up as follows: - The industrial activity of Germanic tribes previous to the establishment of the Karolingian empire is represented by a few isolated objects, such as a grave-urn of the fifth century from the island of F hr, a model of the Nydam boat from the Museum of Germanic Antiquities at Kiel, a figure of a Frankish warrior of the seventh century, with exact reproductions of arms and implements, from the Roman-Germanic Museum at Mainz. The bulk of the collection is devoted to German art in the narrower sense, particularly to German architecture and sculpture of the Middle Ages and the Renaissance. The background of this part of the Museum is formed by 150 large photographs from the Koniglich Preussische Messbildanstalt at Berlin, covering the walls of the lower aisle of the building, and containing views of the exteriors and interiors of the principal German cathedrals, castles, city halls, and private houses from the eleventh to the sixteenth century. The central hall as well as a large part of the side aisle is given over to representative specimens, in plaster cast, water color, and galvano-plastic reproductions, of monumental works of German art during this period. The eleventh century is exhibited by casts of the Bernward column and the bronze gates of Hildesheim cathedral; the twelfth century by water-color reproductions of Romanesque mural paintings in the churches of Brauweiler and Schwarzrheindorf, and by casts of the choir-screen...
