The student should be made to study and write concerning the events, influences etc. that might have preceded the first act to produce such consequences as are discovered in this play. The home, city, and national influences that might have been effective in the early days of Caesar or of any other prominent character in this play may be profitably studied and made the subject of essays. The study of these characters, the analysis of their acts and their results will call for the exercise of the best judgment and for the use of good reasoning powers. The text for readings will supply material for essays. The texts for study call for close instruction in the study of literature, and much study of related history. A supplementary course in the history of English and American literature may be taken in the third or...
